COMPUTER HELP FOR GENEALOGISTS - PART ONE:

Why Do Genealogists Want Computers?

by John C. Cosgriff Jr., M.L.S.

Why in the world should we spend several hundred or more dollars on computer equipment if all we want to do is genealogy? The answer is the same as that for most modern inventions--it makes our work easier, and allows us to substitute creative work for drudgery.

Computers help us by storing large amounts of information in a very small space. They allow us to make copies of information almost instantly. They also allow us to share what we have with other researchers and family members.

Once information is typed into the computer it never has to be typed again. It can be copied from diskette to diskette or printed on paper, and both the diskettes and the printouts can be economically and easily mailed to other researchers.

With a good computer and printer set-up, it is easy to create a family newsletter easy to update a mailing list, easy to arrange a list of names and dates into alphabetical order. It is also possible to arrange ancestors into family group sheets and pedigree charts.

Indexing is another time consuming activity which can be done with ease on the computer. All too many newsletters containing valuable genealogical information never get indexed. If these newsletters were produced on a computer, it would be relatively simple to produce annual or five-year cumulative indexes for every name and place mentioned.

WE NEED YOUR HELP!

Donations are needed for the new overhead microfilm reader to be located at the Norman Public Library. It is tax deductible! If you haven't made your contribution yet, make it NOW. Send to: Norman Chapter NSSAR
