PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

At our April meeting, we select a Nominating Committee which will present a slate of officers at the May meeting for the 2003-2004 program year. This year, for the first time, elections will take place following the committee report at the May meeting. The installation of the new officers will be held as usual at the Annual Business Meeting in June.

We encourage everyone to look for a way to contribute to the various functions of our Society by participating in some way on a committee or promoting a Society project. And we encourage each member to participate in the election process which moves us forward.

JO MUSTOE, President

GARAGE SALE

On March 1st of this year, we worked a booth at the Citywide Garage Sale organized by the Cleveland County Historical Society. Thanks to all who participated by contributing goods and time, we were able to clear a profit of $647.88 for our Society, and have a good time in the process.

Customers at our booth mentioned - for the third year - that our display featured quality goods and that brings a good price. Several shoppers did not haggle over the suggested price, but said they were glad to contribute to a good cause.

Those of us who do the hard work of hauling, setting up, sorting, pricing, and staffing the booth find that we also enjoy the opportunity to do a little personal shopping, and to talk with the customers. We especially like to watch the children choose just how they want to spend a few coins.

We've been hearing from several Society members who are already planning to gather a box full or so for next year. The tentative date has been set for Saturday, March 13, 2004.

Thanks again to all who contributed sale items by the box full and hours of time to make this a successful project.

WRIGHT'S RECEIPTS - AND OTHER FUNDS

We still collect Wright's Receipts at our Library. The Wright's IGA stores contribute 1% of the total of all store receipts returned. Traditionally, we use this fund to purchase another new book or two.

We had hoped to participate in the Albertson's card donation program, but have learned that we do not qualify.

Thanks to the Green Library Project, we continue to collect used ink cartridges for recycling. In about a month, we were able to fill a box full. This project will be sending us a check shortly for our contribution. The second box is nearly half full already. We hope this project will help us fund the cost of new ink cartridges for our computer printer. As a bonus, we all have an outlet for disposing of those toxic cartridges.

We have three shelves of used books for sale at bargain prices. Some mysteries, science fiction, religion, and general interest books are offered any time at 50 cents for hardback and 25 cents for paperback. Check our selection at your convenience.

At our library, we also collect Pennies for Pages, and Dimes for Discs, as well as donated funds. We've learned that every little bit helps.

Thank you for all the ways in which you help us keep the library doors open.

BEGINNER'S WORKSHOP

The next session of our Beginner's Workshop will be held on Sunday, May 4, from 2:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the CCG Library. The cost for each person is $10.00, which covers the cost of handouts. Topics include: Preparation and Organization; Sources; Software; Websites and Local Records. The final section of the workshop is set aside for a one-on-one help session to guide each participant in the next step of the process.

This is a great starter session you could recommend to a friend who is just beginning a family tree. It is also a good review session for anyone who would like to catch up on the latest in search techniques and sources. Call the CCG Library to reserve a place as space is limited to 20 participants.

89 ER's DAY

As part of the activities in observance of the 114th Anniversary of the Run, we will participate, along with other groups, with a booth in Andrews Park. Look for us from 10:00 a.m., when the parade starts, until about 4:00 p.m. on Saturday, April 26. We plan to have handouts, including children's activities, and to offer John WOMACK'S book on Norman history, as well as our book on First Families of Cleveland County.

Come by to see us if you're in town to celebrate the occasion.

BRICK WALL SOLUTIONS

For the program at our March meeting, Ann JACOBS and Lisa SHEPPARD, with a little help from Mary LEWIS, presented five case histories in solving Brick Wall Problems for Society members. Alan MONTGOMERY, Ralph WILSON, JoAnn CROSS, and Sara HARAWAY submitted their problems for review. The research represented the HOLLAND, CLARK, ROGERS, MONTGOMERY, HAWK, and WINK families.

In researching these problems over two months, the following four lessons seemed to emerge as important practices in the research process:

- 1. Review the material you have collected. Go to the original copy any time you can to confirm the transcription. Look at the geography at the time to confirm county boundaries. Check all available sources and resources in the area. It may help to reorganize your file to get a fresh look at the problem. A chronological list, for instance, can help you see events that need to be examined more closely. For instance, you may notice a son of the right age to have served in the military which would open up a whole set of records to be searched.
- 2. Collect material on the siblings and cousins of the ancestor in question. "Build a house with a good foundation." This can help you build facts or confirm them which will help in working back another generation. With more family names, you may find cousin connections who will work with you in building your tree.
- 3. Talk it over. Each of us has a unique heritage and unique research experience in searching for ancestors. Sharing our experience and ideas, however, can spark new ideas and save a lot of time and trouble. Helping each other is what works. This is what we do in our Library. We encourage everyone to come by and be part of the conversation.
- 4. Never give up. Thanks to the internet, more records and sources are becoming more readily available all the time. Think specifically about the source which would answer your particular research question and investigate.

Jo WHITE LINN, genealogical author and lecturer from North Carolina says genealogical problem solving involves two questions: What do we know and what do we need to know? These questions lead us to other questions. What record would provide the answer and where would it be located? If the record does not exist, what can be substituted.

We'd like to hear about your solutions to Brick Wall Problems, and build a file of ideas at our Library. Do you have a research success story to share?

NATIVE AMERICAN ANCESTRY SEMINAR HUGE SUCCESS!

Sharron Standifer ASHTON did a great job of presenting "Native American Ancestry" on March 22 at the Goodrich Memorial United Methodist Church, Norman, OK. Sharron spoke on Identifying American Indian Ancestors: Census Records and Alternative Sources Prior to 1870. She noted that to start a search you would need to identify which tribe your ancestor was from. She provided names of books to start your research. Some of them are: The Indian Tribes of North America, by John R. SWANTON, and A Guide to the Indian Tribes of Oklahoma, by Muriel H. WRIGHT. Some guides that will help in your research are: Guide to Records in the National Archives of the United States Relating to American Indians, by Edward M. HILL, and Who Was Who Among the Southern Indians: A Genealogical Notebook, 1698-1907, by Don MARTINI.

She pointed out that there are several Tribal Rolls, Indian Census, and Alternative Sources which are helpful in your search. Also, some of the information and indexes can be found on the Internet. She had a wealth of information for anyone researching a Native American ancestor. In these records she particularly stressed that there is a tremendous amount of information concerning non-Indian ancestors also.

If you couldn't attend the Seminar please go to the CCG Library and they can help you. The library has a great deal of Native American information.

In The Library

Dr. Arthur KENNEDY has written five volumes of "They Came From Everywhere" - a social history of the Settling of Indian Territory from about 1840 through 1950. His focus is Konawa and Avoca Townships in Seminole County. Read an interesting extraction in the Konawa Genealogical Society Quarterly. The index to the Land Office Military Certificate information about land issued to Revolutionary War officers, soldiers and sailors by the Land Office to reward their service in the State or Continental line. To receive bounty lands for Revolutionary War service, a soldier or sailor must have served continuously for at least 3 years in a Virginia or Continental Unit [or died in service]. The warrant specified the amount of land to be received and directed the surveyor of lands to set aside that quantity of land in the western reserves of Kentucky and Ohio.

Certificates verify Revolutionary War service but not necessarily land ownership since many soldiers or their families sold the warrants to investors or speculators. Information about the disposition of the warrants is located in the state records of Kentucky and Ohio. [The Virginia Genealogical Society Newsletter, Vol. XXVIII, No. 6, December 2001]

RELIC: A Gateway to Virginia Genealogy & History by Donald L. WILSON. The Prince William (Co.) Public Library System has had a separate local history and genealogical collection since 1971. In September 1979, the writer was hired full-time to manage the collection, and was given the title "Virginiana" Librarian, and in 1994 the collection moved to the new Bull Run Regional Library and the department named "RELIC" for the Ruth E. Lloyd Information Center, in honor of the founder of our Library System. New additions are published in an e-mail distribution list. Contact RELIC2@pwcgov.org if you have ancestors who lived in Prince William Co., VA. [The Virginia Genealogical Society Newsletter, Vol. XXVIII, No. 5, October 20011

Virginia Heritage Project provides access to Manuscript Collections - VIVA at their website http://www.lib.virginia.edu/. VIVA's mission is to provide, in an equitable, cooperative, and cost effective manner, enhanced access to library and information resources for Virginia's academic libraries. They have finished the first phase - 1,600 of the estimated 25,000 finding aids. [The Virginia Genealogical Society Newsletter, Vol. XXVIII, No. 5, October 2001]

"The Ghost Town of Wildman." Wildman was located southeast of present Roosevelt, OK, at the south foot of Nest Egg Mountain. In 1964, Hugh D. CORWIN wrote this story of miners who staked claims beginning in 1892 and homesteaders who came in 1901. Today only ruins and concrete foundations remain. Meers. In the late 1880s and early 1900s, many people thought gold was to be found in the Wichita Mountains north of Lawton, Oklahoma. One of the "mining camps turned town" was Meers, named after the first one to file a claim in 1886. What remains there is the Meers Store, famous for its large "Meersburger." "The Meers fault runs across this area and the store houses a seismograph machine to monitor earthquake activity. The store is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and once again has a post office." [The Tree Tracers, Vol. XXVII, No. 1, September 2002 - November 2002]

"Twenty and Counting, How-to Help for Virginia Researchers" by Barbara Vines LITTLE, CG, was adapted from her book Virginia Research, Nineteen and Counting: How-to Help for Virginia Researchers published in the spring of 2002. A variety of research information is discussed. Twenty pamphlets have been published to aid researchers, and can be obtained by phone (804-692-3888), written request to the Library of Virginia (800 East Broad Street, Richmond, VA 23219), or on-line at the Library of Virginia Website www.lva.lib.va.us. [The Virginia Genealogical Society newsletter, Vol. XXVIII, No. 3, June 2002]

The recent movie about the Navajo Code
Talkers in WWII has created an interest in the subject. Shirley Stertz HAWN has written an article about Native Americans who served with General George WASHINGTON, in the Civil War with General PERSHING, in Mexico, as well as more recent wars including the Choctaw Code Talkers in WWII and the Navajo Code Talkers in WWII. The explanation of how the Navajo Code was created is very interesting. Information is also given about available Indian records and where they are located - many of which are at the University of Oklahoma, the Oklahoma Historical Society, and the Dallas Public Library. Websites are also included. [GRIVA News & Notes, Vol. XXIII, No. 2, December 2002]

"The Things They Never Tell You" was the title of a lecture by Bob CLAY, retired Library of Virginia Archivist. An excerpt from that talk is included in the December 2002 issue of GRIVA News & Notes. This two page article lists unusual meanings for terms or abbreviations one needs to read early documents.

For example, "Ordinary" is the name of a place licensed to serve food and perhaps to provide overnight accommodations. We know "Son-in-law" to mean a daughter's husband. However, in earlier records it meant the same thing as our word "stepson." Equal marks (=) or a plus mark (+) were used as an abbreviation for "married to." [GRIVA News and Notes, Vol. XXIII, No. 2, December 2002]

Magnetic Albums - Tips for Document Removal. This article gives several ideas about removal from these albums, safer storage and displaying of our valuable pictures. The old 'magnet' albums are both unreliable (often releasing their contents...) and damaging (due to the "caustic" adhesive). [Logan County Genealogical Society, Inc., No. XX, No. 1, Winter 2001]

A list of those buried in the Camp Russell Cemetery north of Guthrie has been published in the Logan County Genealogical News. In addition to the name of the deceased, dates and inscriptions are given. [Logan County Genealogical Society News, Vol. XIX, No. 4, Fall 2000]

In the article "Tornado Strikes Dardanelle," dated October 30, 1942, damage to some of these Arkansas residents is described. There were seven deaths, and much property damage. The article also gives insurance coverage for the individuals and businesses. [Yell County Historical & Genealogical Association, Vol. 27, No. 2, 2002]

"To Protect Oversize Documents, use oven cooking bags for all papers that are too large for regular acid free plastic. Oven cooking bags come in different sizes and are also acid free..."

CCGS' 18th ANNUAL SEMMAR

Our 18th Annual Seminar will be held Saturday, August 9. The featured speaker, Russell P. BAKER, is the Deputy Director and Archival Manager at the Arkansas History Commission and State Archives, Little Rock, Arkansas. He holds a BA in history and an MA in Public History. He has been employed at the Arkansas History Commission and State Archives since 1970 in a number of capacities ranging from archivist to archival manager to deputy director. He is a life member of the Arkansas Genealogical Society and is a past president of that organization. He is a widely known lecturer on genealogical theory and practice. He is the author of several published works, as well as many articles on local and religious history. Several of his articles on Southern church history have appeared in national publications.

His lectures will be:

- Geological Research in Arkansas This lecture begins with a short description of the founding of Arkansas, its geography, and early transportation systems. This will be followed by a detailed discussion of five sources of Arkansas genealogy and family history information: vital records, census records, county records, military records, and newspaper files.
- Genealogical Research in Tennessee This lecture will discuss the history and early settlement of this Southern state, followed by an analysis of state and federal sources of Tennessee genealogy and places to do Tennessee research.
- 3. Getting the Most From Military Records From America's Forgotten Wars This lecture will emphasize the importance of researching records created by American's involvement in domestic and foreign wars before and after the Civil War. It will center around locating and understanding military service records, pension records, and possible unit histories.
- 4. Reconstructing the Frontier Society Taking the premise that "no family is an island unto itself," this lecture will discuss locating and understanding records that shed light on the possible interconnections that exist within any frontier community, especially in the South. It is these interconnections that often allow us to break through our research "brick walls."

The Seminar will again be held in the Brand Center, 501 East Main Street in Moore, OK. We expect to have interesting vendors, a good lunch, and a wonderful time for everyone! For more information and registration go to the CCGS website, http://www.rootsweb.com/~okccogs, e-mail ccgs@coxinet.net, or phone the CCG Library at (405) 329-9180.

MyFamily.com Purchases Genealogy.com

A special edition of Eastman's Online Genealogy Newsletter on April 8, 2003, states "... MyFamily.com (the parent company of Ancestry.com, Ancestry.co.uk, and RootsWeb) announced that they are purchasing Genealogy.com from A&E Television Networks. Combined, the network of websites receives over ten million unique visitors each month, and has more than one million paid subscriptions. The combination of free and fee websites offers a wide range of genealogy resources.

Family History Writer's Group

This group continues to meet on the second Wednesday of each month from 10:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend.

Members acknowledge that they are not professional writers, but are interested in getting family stories written down for preservation. Members share their writings, encourage each other, and work to improve writing skills.
