Online Digital Documents

BY MARY SUE SCHNELL AND MARY LEWIS

Remember the good old days in genealogy? The days when census records were only on microfilm, and you hoped the reel you were spinning through was the county where great-great-grandpa lived?

The days when you had to write to the courthouse in grandpa's county—or travel there—to find his will or deeds or court records?

The days when we relied on queries in Genealogical Helper and a variety of local publications to find distant cousins who were researching our line?

And then came the internet.

We thought we had died and gone to heaven when our computer screen began showing transcriptions of census, marriage records, cemetery lists and a myriad of other records. Distant cousins and their family trees became as near as our keyboard. It surely couldn't get any better than this.

And then genealogy research got even better. Digital images are changing our world again. Recently our library visitors have been telling us about their experiences finding, on the internet, digital images of important family documents.

Michigan's Million Record March

Searching for early 20th century death records in Michigan? You may be in luck. The "Million Record March" is happening now. The Library of Michigan is making approximately 1 million Michigan death certificates for the years between 1897 and 1920 freely available online.

As of the end of April nearly 660,000 death certificates have been uploaded to their website: http://seekingmichigan.org. This database is indexed and searchable. You can save and print copies of the original certificates for free. (This is a tremendous savings since the State of Michigan charges $27 for each certified death record with no provision of copies for genealogical purposes only). According to the website, the years 1915 to 1920 are particularly significant because no readily available statewide index existed previously for that time period.

Earlier Michigan deaths (1867-1897) are indexed on the Michigan Department of Community Health Genealogical Death Indexing System (GENDIS): http://www.mdch.state.mi.us/gendisx/index.htm. However, this is not a complete index and contains no digitized images. If you are looking for a Michigan death record between 1867 and 1897 you should search using the Family Search Pilot Project discussed below.

More Free Digitized Records

Another website which features digitized vital records is the Latter Day Saints site http://pilot.familysearch.org/recordsearch/start.html#start. If you are one of the lucky searchers you may find a birth, marriage or death record for your ancestor. Although there are numerous records that have been uploaded to the site, many have not been indexed. But you can browse the images for your ancestors.

The site is divided by regions of the world, with most records being from the United States. In addition, there are limited numbers of records from Mexico, Canada, Europe and South America. Once again, if you have late 19th century or early 20th century ancestors who lived in Michigan in that time period, you can access digitized images of their vital records. Available records include Michigan births 1867-1902, Michigan deaths 1867-1897, and Michigan marriages 1868-1925. These databases are indexed and searchable. It is fairly simple to save and/or print the digitized images.

Some state and federal census images are also available on this site, both indexed and non-indexed. Family Search is always in need of volunteer indexers. You don't have to be an LDS member to help with the indexing project.

British Ancestors?

The British Archives website, http://www.findmypast.com, may be for you. Although it is a pay site, it has a great deal of information about individuals who lived in Britain or left a British port for the new world. It includes many digitized images of passenger lists, birth, marriage and death records, parish records and 1841-1911 British Censuses. An individual can pay for an annual subscription, a six-month subscription or utilize the "pay as you go" system.

Five Civilized Tribes on Footnote

Have you checked out Footnote.com lately? If you do research on the Five Civilized Tribes it may be worthwhile for you to subscribe to Footnote.com, the website sponsored by the National Archives.

Digital images of the Dawes Packets, Eastern Cherokee Applications 1906-1909, the Guion Miller Roll, and Indian Census Rolls 1885-1940 are online at http://www.footnote.com. The Eastern Cherokee Applications are not yet completely uploaded to the website.

Footnote.com has over 54 million images online to date. Anyone can access their searchable databases, but to view images takes either an annual or monthly subscription. A single image may also be purchased online for $1.95. A free subscription for a limited number of databases is also available.

Mission of the Cleveland County Genealogical Society

To collect local, historical, and genealogical materials

To preserve selected local public records

To share our library and archival holdings with the public

To promote the development of research skills

Missouri Death Certificates

Death certificates contain valuable information for family historians and researchers. The Missouri Death Certificate Database contains death records created after 1910 and over 50 years old. The online searchable index links to a digitized image of the original death certificate.

The index can be searched by first name and last name, county, and by year and month. Once a name is selected, a digitized image of the original certificate can be retrieved.

This is an ongoing project. Additional records will be added as they are transcribed and imaged. If the image of the certificate is not yet available researchers can request a photocopy of the certificate by contacting the Archives Reference Desk.

Access Missouri Death Certificates at http://www.sos.mo.gov/archives/resources/ deathcertificates

Virginia Chancery Records

Digitization of the Library of Virginia's Chancery Records Index has been a boon to Virginia researchers. Each of Virginia's circuit courts created chancery records that contain considerable historical and genealogical information. Because the records rely so heavily on testimony from witnesses, they offer a unique glimpse into the lives of Virginians from the early 18th century through the First World War.

The original court papers are flat-filed, indexed, and conserved using a set of standards developed by the LVA. Since the tri-folded records are often in poor condition, special attention is paid to preparing them for digital reformatting. This laborious process is undertaken so that the best quality images can be captured in one effort. The valuable original records are then retired to secure storage.

There are over 175,000 cases indexed in the database and a total of almost two million images of chancery cases available online.

Access Virginia's Chancery Records Index at http://www.lva. virginia.bov/ whatwehave/local/chancery/index.htm

Early Volumes of Premier Genealogical Journal Now Available Online

Boston, MA - May 8, 2009 - NEHGS is pleased to announce a new collaboration with The American Genealogist (TAG), one of the premier scholarly genealogical publications in the country. The Society is digitizing back issues of the journal and making them available on its award-winning Web site, NewEnglandAncestors.org.

Founded in 1922 by Donald Lines Jacobus, TAG is edited by a trio of distinguished genealogists. Working with dozens of highlyregarded contributors, these leaders uphold and advance the standards for genealogical scholarship so carefully articulated by Jacobus and the Jacobus "School."

The addition of TAG to online searchable databases will provide unprecedented access to some of the most important scholarly work in the field.

The first eight volumes, covering the years 1923-1932, were published as "Families of Ancient New Haven." These are also available online at NewEnglandAncestors.org.

Volumes 9-13, published between 1933 and 1937, are now available online as a fully searchable database. These first five issues contain 34,537 name records, 847 title/author records, and 1,508 page images. The database may be searched by first and last name. It may also be searched by "article title keyword(s)." This option is an "any match" search that includes article titles and authors. Finally, entering a specific year or volume number, and page number, will provide access to that portion of the journal. When search results are displayed, links to the corresponding TAG pages are provided. Once viewing a TAG page, additional links allow users to see the previous or next search result, or the previous or next TAG page.

Additional volumes will be added regularly, until the database includes Volume 82. At that point new volumes will be added each year, five years after publication. The most recent five volumes will only be available in print.

About NEHGS

Founded in 1845, New England Historic Genealogical Society is the country's oldest and largest non-profit genealogical organization. Located in Boston, NEHGS collects, preserves, and interprets materials that make accessible the histories of families in America. The NEHGS research library is home to millions of books, journals, manuscripts, photographs, microfilms, documents, records, and other artifacts that date back more than four centuries. The award-winning web site www.NewEnglandAncestors.org offers access to more than 110 million names in 2,500 searchable databases.

NEHGS has more than 23,000 members nationally. NEHGS staff includes experts specializing in early American, Irish, English, Scottish, Jewish, Atlantic and French Canadian, Italian. African American, and Native American genealogy.

Copying funeral home records are Frank Appl, Mary Lewis, Marilyn Henry and Sherry Leafgreen

Copying Funeral Home Records

By: MAE D. Cox

The Guardian Mayes Funeral Home of Norman closed its doors and ceased operations in 2007. Several years before that, they provided CCGS with copies of funeral records dating from 1956 through 1992. When official word came of their intent to close, Jo Mustoe contacted the owners and inquired about borrowing the 1993-2007 files so we could complete our set of records. They graciously consented.

Mary Lewis has spearheaded the actual workforce bringing this project to fruition. She inherited the task when Jo Mustoe had to take a leave of absence. Mary coordinated volunteers into four-person crews and scheduled two-hour periods for twice a day. They have met twice a week for the past three months and still have several months to go.

A special acid-free, archival paper was ordered and the fun began! Mary picks up a box of records and takes them to our library. Each box contains about 178 records. Each individual file contains from just one page, the funeral home record, to as many as six or eight documents. Included in some files we've also found military records, birth certificates, photos, death certificates, and obituaries.

One volunteer pulls all pertinent genealogy records from an individual's file. Another makes copies. A third checks the copies and then replaces originals in its respective file. The fourth person enters the deceased's name and details into a database. The copies are then arranged in chronological order and placed in binders.

The project is now about half done with over 1,000 records already copied and bound. Many people have brought the project this far and are named in the President's Report on the next page. Crews will take a break starting in June and resume their mission in September.

> If you would like to help with this project, starting in September, contact Mary Lewis at (405) 701-2100.

Just Browsing

As I was browsing around online one evening, I found another genealogy chart done by someone in Kentucky, with my Smith ancestors on it. I made contact through email, and she turned out to be a cousin. She was the source of the Smith ancestry that I now have posted online. She did her research in Kentucky the old-fashioned, hard way-by hand, on site, in old record books.

One reason I was having such a problem finding anything was that I was looking for "Barney" Smith, which is the name my dad knew his grandfather by. In this woman's tree I found out that Barney Smith's real name was Gabriel Barney Smith.

As I have gained experience I have realized that many times the names our ancestors were known by were not their real, full names. She had a lot more information for me, and I was able to help her too. For instance, I shared a picture of Gabriel Barney Smith with her. As it turned out, he was her great-grandfather too.

This sort of networking helps grow our genealogy trees! Everything I have on our ancestors is posted, and my documentation sources are online at Ancestry.com. So I am very glad to be able to "pass on" the information I got by networking, and please pass it on when you run into another cousin along your genealogy path.

President's Message

As we near the end of another CCGS program year, it is appropriate to salute the many volunteers who support our mission and advance our library and educational functions.

I personally appreciate the support of this year's Board members, Frank Appl, Jimmy Baker, Mae Cox, Jean McCracken, Jo Mustoe, Sarah Pool, Mary Sue Schnell and Crystal Toenjes. The Board provides oversight on the Society's varied activities and projects.

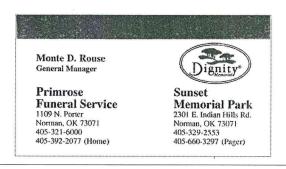

Working together, this year Board members studied and proposed revisions of the CCGS Bylaws and updated the job description for library manager. As a group, they have been committed to reverse the recent yearly drains on our budget. Individually, they have given of their time on the Guardian/Mayes Funeral Home Records Project. I appreciate the contribution of each member of the CCGS Board.

Our Library Volunteers are faithful individuals who regularly give of their time to help in the CCGS Library. Their duties are varied—from greeting visitors, assisting researchers, answering the phone, and making copies—to the technical aspects of a library, such as processing books and materials, shelving, and filing.

This past year our loyal library volunteers were Jo Mustoe (library manager), Taylor Dirck, Nova Hornback, Jean McCracken, Mary Sue Schnell, Pat Starzer, and Caylon Coleman. Our genealogical library could not function without their considerable effort. No one appreciates their contribution more than I.

From the beginning, a basic function of the Cleveland County Genealogical Society has been to preserve the records of local history. This year we had the opportunity to copy and index the records of the Guardian/Mayes Funeral Home, which closed in 2007.

A small army of volunteers within our group have supported this project with their time, including Frank Appl, Tricia Carleton, Caylon Coleman, Marilyn Henry, Nova Hornback, Betty Kemp, Sherry Leafgreen, Elizabeth Loeffelholz, Jean McCracken, Jo Mustoe, Linda Oliver, Evelyn Parker, Sarah Pool, Mary Sue Schnell, and Mary Wheless. It takes dedication and determination to make time in busy lives and to commit to this lengthy project. I heartily salute this special group of volunteers.

Last, but certainly not least, are the committee chairs who take responsibility for specific aspects of the work and life of the Cleveland County Genealogical Society. Each individual job may be small, but each contributes in some way to the success of the programs and activities of our Society. I thank each chair (as well as members of their respective committees) for the important work that they do on behalf of our Society.

I hope you also will thank our many volunteers for their commitment and service to CCGS.

And I invite you to join them in their efforts to promote the mission of the Cleveland County Genealogical Society:

- To collect local, historical, and genealogical materials
- To preserve selected local public records
- To share our library and archival holdings with the
- To promote the development of research skills.

CCGS Bylaws Revisions

By the time members receive this newsletter, they should have received notification of the proposed Bylaws revisions. An e-mail, with Bylaws in an attachment, or a letter was sent to every paid-up member prior to May 20. These revisions will be voted on at the CCGS Annual Meeting Tuesday, June 16.

Please call the CCGS Library (405-701-2100) if you did not receive the notification or could not open the e-mail attachment

Cleveland County Pioneer

By: MARY LEWIS

Lewis Jefferson Edwards did not arrive in Norman until more than a year after the Run into the Unassigned Lands, but he quickly became a Norman booster and supported the bid to locate the University of Oklahoma in Norman.

Born in Connersville, Indiana January 17, 1852, Edwards married Mary Hand about 1877 in Indiana. Their children were Bert Edwards, born August 31, 1881; Clair Edwards, born September 14, 1883; and Denver Edwards, who was born in 1887 and died less than a year later.

The Edwards family came to Norman in the latter months of 1890. In the early days they lived at the corner of East Acers (present-day East Main Street) and 12th Avenue Northeast. In the Edwards home, members of the faculty of the new University of Oklahoma met together for the first time.

Several years later, the Edwards family purchased a large home at 206 S. University, where they remained until death. This property was occupied by members of the Edwards family from 1906 to 1981.

Lewis Edwards was a dedicated civic leader. He was president of the Norman School Board from 1895 to 1900. He served as president of the Norman Chamber of Commerce in 1895-1896. Edwards was a stockholder in the First National Bank of Norman, and had other business interests.

Edwards was a man of action. He noticed a small plot immediately north of the Norman depot that was an unsightly mud hole in the early days. He persuaded the Santa Fe to bring in fill dirt, then planted and tended the spot until it became a small attractive park area. Edwards was appointed head of the parks board in 1912 and remained in that position a dozen years, resigning only when his health declined.

In 1913, the park area Edwards had so faithfully tended north of the depot was named Edwards Park, in his honor. Edwards Park now features James Garner Plaza, with the statue honoring another famous former Norman resident.

Mr. Edwards was an early-day historian. He spent two years researching the story of Abner Norman, the leader of the survey crew that conducted the 1873 survey of the Cleveland County area. Edwards wrote the story of his search for Mr. Norman, preserving it for posterity, and it was published in the Norman Transcript August 17, 1917.

Lewis Edwards must have been a forward-thinking person. It is said that he was among the first in Norman to use such innovations as electric lights, an automobile, motion pictures, radio, and natural gas. It was noted that he was the first citizen of Norman to fly over the town in an airplane.

Edwards' wife, Mary Edwards, died in October, 1917. She is buried in Norman's I.O.O.F. Cemetery. Mr. Edwards later married a widow, Minnie Atkins, August 17, 1921.

Lewis J. Edwards died in Norman August 28, 1926 and is buried beside Mary Edwards, his first wife. His probate file lists as heirs his widow, Minnie Edwards, and two sons, Burt and Claire Edwards.

Meetings

February

Jan Skelton, deputy county clerk for Cleveland County, spoke to nineteen attendees at the February Society meeting.

Jan began working in the County Clerk's office, fresh out of St. Joseph High School, in 1960. She retired in 1996 to care for an aging parent, and was called back to the office in August, 2007.

She truly enjoys her work in preservation of historic public documents and working with the public. She has seen the evolution from handwritten indexes and manual typewriters to computers and digitized records.

The County Clerk's office handles land records since 1889. Among other records to be found in that office are patents, final receipts, mortgage, and oil and gas documents, as well as a variety of miscellaneous documents.

Ms. Skelton fielded a variety of questions from the audience.

March

Our guest speaker in March was Kathryn Ramsay, who was recently hired by Pioneer Library System as a Local History and Genealogy Resources Librarian.

Ms. Ramsay graduated from the University of Oklahoma with a bachelor's degree in history and a masters in library science. She has worked at law libraries in Tulsa, was director of Hominy Public Library for 12 years, and most recently served as a substitute library assistant at the Noble Public Library. She also has experience in researching her own family history.

She outlined to our group her initial responsibilities in this new post. She will research local history and genealogy services in other public libraries and develop collection development policies and procedures for local history and genealogy services. She also is establishing tasked with relationships with those in the Pioneer System communities who are interested in local history and genealogy.

Ms. Ramsay's office is in the Pioneer Library System facility on McGee Street in Norman.

April

John Lovett, Director of Special Collections, Western History Collection at the University of Oklahoma, presented a slide show of historic Oklahoma photographs. Each photograph provided a sample of the variety of subjects to be found in the University's collection.

The collection includes thousands of unidentified individuals in a variety of settings. Many items are on glass plate negatives. The library scans and prints these items for public viewing.

Many items in the collection show Guthrie and other Oklahoma town sites at and near the time of the opening of the Unassigned lands. Some feature the settlers in their home setting.

The collection includes many sports shots, including the 1896 OU football team in their flying wedge formation, the 1905 football team with coach Benny Owen, and the first photograph of the OU RufNeks.

There is a series of range cattle photographs and many photographs featuring the Wild West shows of Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill in Oklahoma. Another series features early governor Alfalfa Bill Murray.

American Indians comprise another photographic collection. Quanah Parker, Geronimo, a tribal election in Wewoka, and the Choctaw Light Horse characteristic of the variety in this selection.

Other collections include photographs of the oil and mining industries, wedding photos, school pictures, church activities, and many more.

A hint to the wise from John Lovett: summer is the time to visit the Western History Collection. With the smaller summer enrolment, it is much easier to find parking on campus.

CCGS Field Trip to Oklahoma History Center Library

Have you visited the Oklahoma Historical Society Library since it was moved into the new Oklahoma History Center? Many of us have not.

A member suggested that we should have a field trip to the library to familiarize ourselves with the kinds of holdings that are available, and how to access the materials we want to research. That seemed like a good idea, so we began putting plans into motion.

The field trip will be Saturday, June 27, 2009, at the Oklahoma History Center, 2401 North Laird, Oklahoma City.

The tour will begin at 10:30 a.m., so plan to arrive by 10:15. If you want to carpool, meet at the CCGS Library at 9:30 a.m. In the meantime, check out the Oklahoma Historical Society website: http://www.ok history.org/research/index.html.

Bring a sack lunch, or have lunch at the Winnie Mae Cafe. Plan to do some research after the tour. The Research Center closes at 4:45 p.m.

There is no charge for this Field Trip. It is open to CCGS members and non-members.

For more information, phone the CCGS Library, 701-2100.

Call for Volunteers to Staff Summer Seminar

CCGS has hosted annual Summer Seminars since 1987. These seminars have been a dependable fundraiser for our society. Many hands are required to present a successful event.

Below are some jobs we need to fill this year. To volunteer, please call the CCGS Library (701-2100).

Donations (can begin now)

- Donate door prize and goody-bag
- · Solicit door prize and goody-bag items from businesses, financial institutions, and others

Assembling (week before Seminar)

- · Make copies for syllabus
- · Assemble syllabus
- Assemble goody-bags

Registration (August 1)

· Work registration table on Seminar date

Food Service (ongoing & August 1)

- · Coordinate donations of food, snacks, pop, etc. for the event
- Prepare and serve food on Seminar date
- Work in kitchen as needed

CCGS Product Sales

(ongoing, and August 1)

- · Coordinate CCGS book sales
- · Assist at CCGS vendor tables

Set Up and Clean Up

(July 31 and August 1)

- Help set up the room Friday before Seminar
- Help clean up after Seminar Saturday afternoon

Deaths

Lorene Joyce Dean, mother of CCGS member Leeanna Curren, died in Norman April 7, 2009.

Former member Clifton R. Brooks died May 8, 2009 in Norman.

CCGS Heritage Cook Book

Do you have Granny's recipe? It might be something Granny made when you were sick, or perhaps for special occasions. It could have been a favorite food. On the other hand, you may have wondered why so many people raved about this dish you couldn't stand to eat.

Whatever the recipe, we'd like to have the recipe and a few words about Granny and why you remember this dish. It is just what we need for the Heritage Cook Book which we are compiling for a CCGS fund raiser. We'd like to get the book published before time for Christmas shopping this fall.

Recycling Projects Pay Off

CCGS participates in two "green" projects to recycle used printer cartridges. The Green Schools project accepts large printer cartridges, and the Office Max MaxPerks project accepts smaller ink cartridges.

Our members' continuing donations of both size cartridges helps us purchase needed office supplies.

This past month we used $69 in MaxPerks rewards to purchase legal size copy paper, hanging file folders, and a heavy-duty stapler. We also received a $31 check from the Green Schools Project.

Thank you, members and friends, for your support in these recycling projects.

East Main Street Has Opened

The ongoing Main Street construction project is nearing an end. As of this writing, traffic is flowing between Carter Avenue and 12th Avenue Northeast, although some lanes remain blocked.

The Main Street entrance onto Veterans Drive has been moved several feet west of the previous entrance and has been open to traffic for a couple of weeks.

Summer Seminar

Saturday, August 1, 2009, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Norman Community Church of the Nazarene,

1804 N. Porter in Norman

Now that traffic is (almost) back to normal, we invite our members and friends to visit the Cleveland County Genealogical Society Library again.

You will find that we have made some changes, moved some materials, and found space to shelve many more genealogy resources. Our volunteers are ready to help you.

On the fight Side

She Really Was

While searching through Ancestry.com's index of original death records for Kentucky (1852-1953), I found the parents for Elizabeth Penn listed as: father: Ben Sinclair — mother: "Shewasa Griffith".

Thinking "Shewasa" was rather odd for a first name, I brought up the original record and it really read "she was a" Griffith.

1940 Census

For many genealogists, the countdown to access the 1940 Census has already begun. There are less than three years remaining until Monday, April 2, 2012. The official date for the 1940 Census was April 1st. But since that day will fall on a Sunday in 2012, it is unclear whether researchers will have weekend access to film at the National Archives or will instead need to wait until Monday to satisfy their genealogical curiosity.

History in 1940

On April 7, 1940, just days after the official date for the 1940 Census enumeration, Booker T. Washington became the first African American to appear on a United States postage stamp. At the time, the domestic letter rate was just 3 cents per ounce.

History in 1940

Henry Fonda starred in The Grapes of Wrath (the novel by John Steinbeck).

The ship Queen Elizabeth quietly completed her maiden voyage, arriving in New York.

German troops marched through Paris, France.

The first military draft number was drawn initiating selective service in the U.S.

U.S. President Roosevelt was re-elected for a historic third term.

Indentured Servants and the Headright System

By MAE D. Cox

Ever wonder just how your ancestors arrived in America? Most wishing to sail to this new-found land had one thing in common: they were poor and couldn't afford the trip! In the 1600s, there was a real push to colonize the American wilderness. Plus more people were needed to help work the rich fertile lands. Soon a variety of systems were designed and put in place to help poorer immigrants pay their passage to America.

The Headright System

A plan designed by England to encourage emigration to the colonies. Any person immigrating into Virginia was a potential headright. Any person who settled in Virginia or paid for the transportation expenses of another person who settled in Virginia was entitled to receive fifty acres of land for each immigrant. The person immigrating wasn't entitled to free land, only his or her sponsor. The right to receive fifty acres per person, or per head, was called a headright.

There were no restrictions on age or gender. Headrights could be, and often were, children. In fact, many imported were teenagers. Families frequently sold their children into indentured servitude — hopefully this was done not for the money, but instead to help that child find a better way of life.

Both large and small landowners imported slaves, or purchased them from ship captains who brought them to the colony for sale. The headright claims for the indentured servants listed the names of the individuals, but the claims for slaves rarely identified individuals.

The headright system encouraged wealthy individuals to pay to transport laborers to Virginia in return for free land. Virginia planters who brought in slaves were awarded fifty acres per slave, just as they were awarded fifty acres per indentured servant.

Patenting Process

There were several steps required to acquire the free land. First, the patentee petitioned the county court for a certificate of importation. The certificate, usually recorded in county court minute books, was considered proof of the number of headrights claimed. Patentees took their certificates to the Secretary of the Colony, who issued a right of fifty acres per headright.

The right was taken to the county surveyor, who surveyed the chosen land and created a plat. The patentee then returned all these papers to the Secretary, who made two copies: a copy to be recorded, and a copy that was sent to the governor who signed it. It was then sealed and delivered to the patentee.

Once the patent was issued, the patentee had three years to seat and plant the land. Seating required payment of the quitrent —annual payment to the crown of one shilling for every fifty acres. Planting required either cultivating one acre or building a house and keeping livestock.

By early 1700, colonists wanted more land and the crown wanted to expand the colony, so the treasury right was created. Those wanting new land could, for five shillings, receive a right to fifty acres. Most land was patented by treasury right instead of by headright after about 1715.

Indentured Servants

These immigrants had their passage paid by a landowner. In theory, the servants would work five to seven years for the sponsor, and could not acquire title to land through their work during their term of service.

At the end of their term of indenture, they were given basic clothing and equipment, and were free to go their own way in the unsettled frontier.

Both Indentured Servant and Headright

Though frequently thought of as two different systems, many times a headright was also an indentured servant. The sponsor received fifty acres and the indentured servant promised four to seven years of service to the sponsor. Both parties benefitted from this setup.

Abuse of the System

As with most any system, there was abuse. Greedy landowners found it easy to buy names of farmers already in Virginia, and place those names on claims, receiving fifty acres for each

Fraudulent claims were made for persons who had no intent to inhabit, such as sailors and traveling merchants. Shipmasters augmented their profits from a voyage by selling entire manifests listing passengers and sailors, even though the sailors would leave on the next sailing. The passengers were also claimable by whoever paid their passage. Again the greedy landowner profited by receiving more land.

Perhaps more importantly, it appears that use of fictitious or irrelevant names was common by the late seventeenth century. Eventually the corruption of the system led to its demise.

For more about these systems, just search the Internet for Headright or Indentured Servant. You'll be surprised at the amazing amount of material available!

Annual CCGS Summer Seminar

Saturday August 1, 2009 • 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Norman Community Church of the Nazarene 1804 N. Porter in Norman > Almost everyone residing in present-day Oklahoma has at least one ancestor whose migrations led him through Virginia.

> > The focus of the CCGS 2009 Summer Seminar is Research in Virginia. Speaker is Dr. George W. Schweitzer who will also cover Research in Burned Counties. In a final session, he will field research questions from participants.

Dr. Schweitzer will outline a concise story of Virginia's importance in the American experience — the state's history and culture, patterns of immigration into and emigration out of Virginia, and the development of its government structure. He will also discuss the processes of record-keeping in Virginia and the survival of the state's records.

Dr. Schweitzer's theory is that a burned courthouse does not mean there are no records for the ancestor who lived in that county. It just means the researcher must think creatively. His talk will open up some new possibilities for finding traces of that ancestor.

George K. Schweitzer is Alumni Distinguished Professor at the University of TN and holds BA, MS, and PhD degrees in Chemistry, an MA in the History of Religion, a PhD in History of Science, and an ScD (Doctor of Science) in Philosophy of Science. He is Phi Beta Kappa and is listed in Who's Who in America. He has authored 220 publications including 19 genealogical guidebooks.

Professor Schweitzer uses historical reenactment to teach genealogy and has traced many of his ancestral lines back to the early 1500s. He has lectured to over 200 genealogical and historical societies in the US, Canada, England, and Germany.
